CABINET OF FRANCE IS DISSOLVED BY LEYGUES

Premier's Policy Criticised By Deputies For Lack Of Firmness

CALL POINCAIRE?

Former President Is Mentioned As Next Chief Councillor

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 12.—The Cabinet has resigned as the result of the Chamber's having refused by 463 votes to 125, to comply with the Government's request that it postpone interpellations on the latter's financial and general policy.

Paris, Jan. 12.—During the debate in the Chamber on interpellations, the Government was severely criticised, particularly with regard to foreign affairs wherein, it was alleged, a lack of firmness had been displayed.

REFUSES TO BE TIED

Premier Leygues took the ground that the hands of the Government should not be tied at the forthcoming Allied conference, and urged postponement of the debate.

He emphasised the Government's determination energetically to pursue the execution of the Treaty of Versailles and the disarmament of Germany, and added that the Government would either attend the conference with the full confidence of the Chamber or would not attend it at all. The closure was finally applied and after the vote had been taken the Chamber adjourned until January 18.

MAY CALL POINCARE

It is stated in the lobby that the Independent Deputies have requested their committee to urge the President to invite Ex-president Poincare to form a Cabinet.

Paris, Jan. 12.—The Chamber of Deputies yesterday proceeded with the election of its officers. M. Raoul Peret was re-elected President with 374 votes. The vice-presidents are MM. Leon Berard, Lefevre, du Prey, Francois Arago and Arthur Groussier.

The Senate will elect its officers on Thurday. M. Leon Bourgeois is the sole candidate for President.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 13.—It is probable that the immediate effect of the fall of M. Leygues' Government will be postponement of the Inter-Allied conference at Paris which was to be held on January 19.

The defeat of the French Government is attributed to an accumulation of causes connected with internal and external policy, but the Chamber of Deputies is in no way anti-British, despite its criticism of the conduct of foreign affairs by M. Leygues' administration.

Upper Silesia Is Infested By Bands Of Marauding Poles

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Jan. 12.—The German Government in a Note to the Allies declares that the situation in Upper Silesia has become intolerable, and that the region is infested with marauding Polish bands.

It is asserted that in the district of Kattowitz alone, murders have increased by 243 percent and robberies by 80 percent, since the arrival of the Inter-Allied Commissions, whose measures of repression are declared to be inadequate.

The note demands the closing of the southern and eastern frontiers against admission of these marauders, and the infliction of stern penalties for misdeeds.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, January 12.—The American Minister charged with settlement of the tonnage to be surrendered to France out of the Rhine fleet made his report on January 4.

He awards France about 50,000 tons of coal barges and tugs as well as the plant installed in the port of Rotterdam on August 1, 1914, by the Rhine Navigation Company of Baden.

New French Councillors Take Seats This Afternoon; Utilities Plans Suggested

Dr. Tartois, In Letter Of Appreciation To Voters, Cites Case Against Tramways Company

The newly-elected members of the French Municipal Council will be formally inducted into office this afternoon at the regular meeting. Committees for the year will be appointed at the meeting.

A letter of appreciation to the voters of the French Concession for their confidence in the reform candidates and an appeal to them not to let their interest lag in the public utilities controversy now that their candidates have been placed on the Council was issued yesterday by Dr. E. Tartois, who during the last few months has been one of the leaders in the fight against the tramways and electric company.

The letter outlines the policy of the new Council, stating its case against the Company and pointing out that the logical solution of the problem is the taking over of the service by the Municipality, as previously proposed, thus forcing the Company to enter into discussions here instead of in Paris.

The text of the letter follows:

VOTERS UNDERSTOOD

To the Ratepayers of the French Concession. We desire to thank you for turning out in such large numbers to support us. You understood the importance of the questions under discussion and the necessity of a prompt solution.

We were aware before the elections that the unanimity was absolute; we are sure of this now and moreover we can make use of your co-operation.

It is not our intention to destroy the Concession Company, and, as some one has insinuated, to take its place.

We wish only to force the Company to live up to its obligations but this is not easy.

Some think it is possible to discuss matters with the Company and to arrange things amicably.

It is absolutely impossible one can not discuss with those who do not wish to discuss.

Besides, do not forget that the question has been in suspense for ten years. The previous councillors have tried in vain to settle matters.

In 1914, following objections raised by the cost of electric current, an arrangement was arrived at between the Council and the Company. The Company reduced the price of electricity from 14 tael cents to 12, but in exchange obtained a reduction of taxes which amounted to a loss of over Tls. 100,000 to the ratepayers and an extension of the contract 25 years thereby assuring the Company of its monopoly to 75 years!

The ratepayers thus had to pay dearly for the slight advantages obtained.

We have pointed out that quite recently the Company, during the discussions at Paris, agreed in principle to the suppression of meters but as compensation asked the Municipality for advantages amounting to Tls. 50,000 per year, and in addition an increase of the Municipal taxes from 12 percent to 14 percent, say Tls. 120,000.

USED WAR AS EXCUSE

In 1914 and 1916 the French authorities were greatly preoccupied with the extensions of the public utilities but failed as the Company had an excellent excuse owing to the War.

In 1917, the French authorities tried again, the Company got off through a daring step, taking legal action against the Municipality.

Not only did the Company then refuse to give satisfaction to the Municipal claims but took steps to again raise the tariffs for water, electricity and the tramways.

To refuse everything and to ask unceasingly for further advantages, are the usual tactics of the Company. How is it possible to discuss matters reasonably with this Company?

Has its tactics since changed?

Recent events prove they have not.

One point is indisputable: in accordance with its contracts, the Company must have its head office in Shanghai.

To give satisfaction on this point would cost the Company nothing.

Do you think that during the three months the situation has become acute, the Company has given satisfaction? It has not even deigned to reply.

It has restricted itself to cabling vaguely: "that it was prepared to send a representative to Shanghai but in any case was not in a position to do so immediately."

In any case, the Company sent the following cable which was not published and with reason:

"In any case the Company would not send a representative to Shanghai until after the arrival of Mr. Wilden and then only if public opinion demanded such a representative."

We think the Company is decided, however, on this point.

Do you wish other examples of the Company's unfaithfulness?

The Company insists that it was at the request of the Municipality that the Diesel system was chosen for their new works. The Council is as insistent in its contradiction of this statement.

Never did the Municipality make such a request. But this does not worry the Company, which continues to affirm this lie.

In 1915, Mr. Delcasse; Minister of Foreign Affairs, regarded the connection with the S.M.C. Electricity Department as necessary. However, on the request of the Company, owing to the special conditions brought about by the war, the French authorities authorised the connection of this cable but with distinct reservations.

The war was over two years ago, the outgoing Council then called upon the Company to do away with this method of supplying current.

The Company raised objections and called upon the Council by

TELLS OF WORK BY RED CROSS IN FAMINE AREA

Road Construction Under Way Report To Washington Says

WOMEN'S SOCIETY BUSY

Local Body Sending Much Clothing; Needs More Money To Carry On

The progress of the famine relief work being carried on under the direction of the American Red Cross in North China is described in a report which has just been forwarded to the Director of Foreign Operations of the society at Washington by the director of Chinese Famine Relief work of the American Red Cross.

HERE IS REPORT

The report is as follows:

Sir.—Herewith is a report for the month ending December 31, 1920. Copies will be sent to the same persons mentioned in my first report. The balance sheet and other accounting statements will be rendered to you direct by the Director of Accounts, Mr. E. Alfred Davies.

The activities of the month have been those usual to getting our machine into operation. Purchases which had been made during the month of November in Dairen were received at Chinwangtao on December 9, 1920, for transportation to Tehchow. This shipment was brought by the U. S. Army Transport Merritt without cost to the Red Cross. The shipment was delayed several days at Dairen due to defective banking services which threatened at one time to hold up the shipment entirely.

The Director personally gave his attention to the unloading of this cargo and passing it through Customs and rode with the greater portion of it to Tehchow so as to be sure of quick connections and other features safeguarding the transit of this valuable bulk of supplies. We were able to unload at Tehchow within eight hours of arrival. Hence I am assured that in the future we shall be able to secure special train service the same as for the shipment just described.

TRANSPORT DIFFICULT

The difficulty with transportation is chronic due to shortage of rolling stock, which shortage is aggravated by the fact that 90 percent of the shipments over the Chinese Government Railways consist of coal and of grain products, all of which move in great bulk at the close of harvest and at the beginning of cold weather. The situation is further aggravated this year by the fact that so large an area is not self-sustaining but must live upon grain brought from the outside. The crisis thus precipitated has moved the Ministry of Communications to appoint a supervisor of famine grain transportation, and, as the Adviser of that Ministry, the Director has been loaded with this additional responsibility.

In order to simplify the work of handling famine relief shipments, the Director called a meeting of representatives from other famine relief societies and seconded the agreement of these societies to cooperate in a Central Purchasing Agency which is to be under his direction. This will admit of the placing of orders in the markets nearest the destination of the purchases and should reduce the amount of transportation by a large percent. In this way the Red Cross supply will be safeguarded and the entire famine area much better supplied.

Organisation—I regret to report that business circumstances required the resignation of the Chief Engineer, Mr. K. C. Weedin, effective December 23, 1920. Succeeding Mr. Weedin, Capt. Lawrence Impey, of the British Army, now on furlough in China, has been appointed Chief Engineer. Capt. Impey had served for several weeks under Mr. Weedin's direction and will carry out the same policy. As a man of experience and ability, I have

Allied Warship Sinks Soviet Red Transport

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Jan. 12.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Associated Press telegraphs that an engagement has taken place in the Black Sea between an Allied torpedo-boat and a Soviet flotilla believed to be transporting Red troops towards Trebizond.

It is reported that one Bolshevist vessel was sunk, while some others were put out of action.

COMMUNISTS IN VLADIVOSTOK WIN ASSEMBLY SEATS

Extremists Only Factions To Take Much Interest In Elections

MODERATES DISCOURAGED

Anti-Bolshevist Legislature Impossible Declare Conservatives

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, Jan. 12.—The election has resulted in the return of the following groups:

|---|---|
| Communists | 15 |
| National Democrats | 6 |
| Progressive Democrats | 2 |
| Social Revolutionaries | 1 |
| Democrats | 1 |
| Mensheviki | 1 |

A pronounced indifference toward the elections was shown, only the Extreme Left, made up principally of workmen, and the Extreme Right, participating.

The Middle Classes and educated employees did not vote, stating that a Bolshevik majority was a foregone conclusion, while in case the Bolsheviks were in the minority, the National Assembly would not be permitted to meet.

In addition they argued that they had often voted in various elections during the past few years but without tangible results.

IMMIGRATION BILL IS DISAPPROVED BY AMERICAN SENATORS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Senators, after analysing the evidence of 30 witnesses before the Senate Immigration Committee have asserted that it failed to prove the existence of an emergency justifying the prohibition of immigration for one year under the Johnson Bill.

They declare that the charge that millions of aliens will otherwise flood the country, increase unemployment and create chaos, is unproved.

IT has been learned that Joseph P. Tumulty, President Wilson's secretary, is to be appointed Chief Judge of the United States Court of Customs Appeals. The appointment is for life at an annual salary of $10,000. The court sits at Washington, which may explain Tumulty's purchase of the old Shepard mansion at Washington. Tumulty was admitted to the bar in 1902 and has been Mr. Wilson's secretary since the President was Governor of New Jersey.

COMPRADORE OF FEARON, DANIEL SHOOTS SELF

Piece Goods Panic Is Given As Cause For Attempt At Suicide

Mr. Woo Yue-dan, for the past seven years the compradore of Messrs. Fearon, Daniel and Company, Inc., yesterday afternoon shot himself in the head and is in a precarious condition at his home. Worry over financial difficulties resulting from the piece goods panic is given as the reason for the attempt at suicide. Chinese banks had been pressing Mr. Woo the last few days, it is learned.

The compradore was at his office yesterday morning apparently in the best of spirits. The attempt at suicide was made shortly after 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and he was rushed to the St. Mary's Hospital in the French Concession.

Last night he was taken to his home on Haining Road.

Mr. Woo has been employed by Messrs. Fearon, Daniel and Company, Inc., for nearly 15 years and enjoys a splendid reputation with the Chinese business men. He is about 35 years old, married and has a family.

Tram Workers Quit Jobs When Duke Arrives

(Reuter's Service)

Madras, Jan. 12.—The Indian Nationalist Party was active on the occasion of the Duke of Connaught's arrival.

A huge procession was organised, carrying banners with inscriptions urging the people to boycott his visit and concentrate upon the attainment of self-government.

Placards were posted up everywhere, calling upon the people not to attend the procession in honor of the Duke, because, "the Duke cannot redress your grievances."

Apparently owing to this, campaign, the tramwaymen have decided not to work today.

LANGDON'S OWN STORY OF ASSASSIN'S ATTACK TOLD IN WASHINGTON REPORT

Admiral Gleaves, Aboard Destroyer, On Way Here, Turns Back To Manila And Cruiser New Orleans Fails To Sail For Vladivostok

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 13.—Admiral Gleaves, who is on his way to Vladivostok to investigate the shooting of Lieut. W. H. Langdon, Chief Engineer of the Albany, has reported that the Japanese officials seemed greatly concerned, and have offered every assistance. In a further message he forwards the report of a Japanese officer at Vladivostok, giving the sentry's account of the affair. The sentry stated that his suspicions were aroused by seeing a foreigner flashing a hand lamp, whereupon he (the sentry) ran across the street, calling on him to halt. As the foreigner came near he fired a revolver shot at the sentry, who in turn fired his rifle. Then the foreigner fired two more shots and the sentry fired one. The sentry added that he then ran back for the guard, but the foreigner had gone when he and the guard returned.

Lieut. Langdon has also made a statement. He said he was returning to his ship, using a hand lamp. When opposite the Japanese divisional headquarters a sentry ran across the street, taking up a position to charge with his bayonet, standing to Lieut. Langdon's left side and six feet in front of him.

Lieut. Langdon halted until the sentry said Americanski, and the former replied that he was. He then walked past the sentry and was six feet beyond him when the sentry fired on him, the ball striking him in the back.

Lieut. Langdon then fired two revolver shots at the sentry, who permitted him to return to his ship.

Admiral Gleaves adds that Lieut. Langdon was in full uniform, and his clothes and wounds show that he was shot in the back.

YANGTSZE PATROL COMMAND TAKEN BY CAPTAIN WOOD

Captain Kearney Relieved; To Sail For America Next Week

Capt. Duncan Wood, U.S.N., arrived in Shanghai yesterday on the French liner Andre Lebon and will assume command of the Yangtsze Patrol succeeding in this post Capt. Thomas A. Kearney, whose term of service in China waters has expired and who is returning to America for a new assignment.

Captain Wood comes to Shanghai from Honolulu having crossed from Hawaii to Japan on the Pacific Mail liner Venezuela. Captain Wood and Captain Kearney were classmates at the Annapolis Naval Academy, both graduating in 1896.

After seeing service in the Spanish war in the West Indies Captain Wood made his first voyage into China waters in 1899 on the Monterey and in 1900 he was aboard the U.S.S. Oregon when that vessel went on the rocks in the Straits of Pechili when on its way to Taku while the Boxer rebellion was in progress.

WIDELY TRAVELLED

It was after this that Captain Wood came to Shanghai for a stay in the year 1901 and after returning to the United States he came back on the U.S.S. Raleigh to go to Manila in 1903. The following ten years of his naval experience were filled with cruises in many quarters of the globe and in 1914-15 while the trouble with Mexico was at its height he was in command at Tampico of the U.S.S. Petrel, a gunboat his father had commanded in the battle of Manila Bay.

While the war was in progress Captain Wood commanded the American gunboat Marietta which was stationed in the Mediterranean and after the United States entered the war he took command of the cruiser Tacoma which served as a convoy for troop ships across the Atlantic. It was in this service that he won the Naval Cross, a decoration similar to those recently awarded to Captain Kearney. Captain Charles T. Owens, Commander of the New Orleans, and Rogar Johnstone of the U.S. Navy Purchasing department of Shanghai.

ON SPECIAL SERVICE

Following the armistice Captain Wood was detailed for service on the coast of South America and later for special service. He graduated from the war college in May, 1920, and comes to Shanghai after having served on the naval board that went to Samoa on the U.S.S. Kansas to investigate administrative conditions there.

Captain Wood said yesterday that on his return to Honolulu from the voyage to Samoa he had expected to return to the United States when the order transferring him to the command of the Yangtsze Patrol was issued and brought him to China.

Captain Kearney, who is being relieved, is to sail for America next Wednesday.

(Special Cable)

Manila, Jan. 13.—According to information received here Admiral Albert Gleaves, Commander-in-Chief of the American Asiatic fleet, is returning to Manila after having sailed on the destroyer Elliott, presumably for Vladivostok to investigate the shooting there of Lieut. W. S. Langdon, chief engineer of the U.S.S. Albany. The change in the plan of the Admiral was made at sea after the Elliott had started north.

The foregoing despatch is interpreted here to mean that Admiral Gleaves either received information by wireless after he had started which led him to change his plans and return to Manila and the change may have been directed in a radio order from the Navy department at Washington.

NEW ORLEANS HALTED

It was announced yesterday that Admiral Gleaves was coming to Shanghai on the destroyer Hart with the purpose of shifting to the cruiser New Orleans which was to have sailed yesterday for Vladivostok. In accordance with this plan the New Orleans was speedily coaled and supplies for the voyage were taken aboard yesterday, but by reason of the change of plan the vessel remained in port.

Concerning the shooting of Lieutenant Langdon only Japanese versions of what happened have been received here up to the present. According to these reports Lieutenant Langdon disregarded warnings of a Japanese sentry who thereupon fired on him. In the following is given one of these versions of the shooting:

Tokio, Jan. 12.—About the case of a Japanese sentry having shot an American naval lieutenant at Vladivostok, an authority of the Army Department has stated as follows:

TRY TO JUSTIFY SENTRY

"Though we do not get any detailed reports, yet it seems to be the case that the sentry may be said to have taken all reasonable steps. According to the rules of the sentry it is stipulated that after having ordered to stop three times the person thus ordered may be shot if he does not obey. The said sentry in the present case shouted three times to stop and though the person thus ordered did not stop, yet he did not fire on him and took up a very careful attitude and approached near the position of the person, which may be considered as quite correct conduct of the said sentry. In any case it is regrettable to know that the said American naval lieutenant has died of the wound.

"An authority of the Army Department has further stated that as to the conduct of the sentry, he will be tried by a court-martial and it is regrettable to have caused the death of an American naval officer. The Commander of the Japanese army at Vladivostok immediately called personally on the Captain of the United States Ship Albany and expressed his condolence; the Minister of the Army has also asked the Commander of the Japanese Army to convey his deep condolence to the Captain of the American man-of-war.

Mischa Weisbrod Real Wonder-Child On Violin

The concert agent for a musical genius has, I take it, a responsibility of a different sort to the owner of a gold-mine or the proprietor of a hotel, each of whom may be a genius himself in his own line. In the case of Mischa Weisbrod, the agent would have been treating both his gifted charge and the musical section of the public with greater respect if programs had been announced ahead. If mere abnormality was to be the sole attraction it is a further injustice to the youthful genius. (The mere musician would rather know what he may expect to hear played than to gather from a printed portrait that the playing is done in a sailor suit which, at evening concerts by the way, is not the case.) Since seeing the program of last night and of next Tuesday the objection must be withdrawn.

As it was, encouraged by the accounts of private persons who had heard Weisbrod play, and fortified by the editor's heavy bribe I took the chances of a mere sensational spectacle, and agree that the boy is a genius.

We reserve that word for those very rare cases in which musical and executive powers are perfectly balanced in one complex endowment. On hearing such a youth we reflect upon the nature of phenomenal gifts in music. The interdependent powers of mind, memory, ear and muscular discrimination are all in themselves capable of development. Any rich endowment alone of these is sufficient to make a clever player, or a player of talent, provided that no one of the others is entirely absent.

When all these powers are displayed at an age when there has been no time for slow process of co-ordinating these diverse faculties, when they seem to spring immediately into action apparently without conscious effort in a way that defies our ordinary experience, we describe such a phenomenal endowment by the word genius.

That such boys as Mischa Weisbrod should have the command at times of refined emotion that belongs to a mature artist is more wonderful still. Most of us ordinary people have a profound respect for innate genius as against acquired faculties. Others have a love for what is merely abnormal. Weisbrod is supernormal, as genius is, and there is no trace of that lurking pathological abnormality which Lombroso and Max Nordau have been led to believe is an invariable concommitant of genius. Seeing, hearing, and speaking with Mischa Weisbrod, one protests against the use of the word 'prodigy' with any of its usual connotation implying the morbid and hectic.

Having said this of the young violinist it is absurd to rhapsodise about his technical equipment. The technique of the violin seems to have been completely absorbed and the accomplishment of difficulties to be entirely subconscious. The violin, in his hands, is an instrument of almost perfect intonation. The octaves in the Mendelssohn concerto have to be heard to be believed, and the headlong pace and precision of the finale moves the hearer to admiring wonder.

The other Mischa—Elman, was some three years older than Weisbrod when I first heard him play the Mendelssohn concerto. He had studied longer and was more fully developed. In Weisbrod's playing there is at times a childishness that provokes a smile as in the slow movement. This is quite charming, and then suddenly he becomes the mature player, the executant of complete power.

Weisbrod will not always be a 'prodigy' and everything depends on what he does in the next few years. If he grows up in music under the best teaching he will be a great violinist.

He showed mature feeling most in "Kol Nidrei," whilst at other times if he did not feel much it was because there was not much to feel and he lacks the older trick of putting into music what is not there. No one minds his bird-whistling harmonies and trick-playing because the boy evidently knows most of the great violin music in the world.

On Tuesday he is to play the Tchaikovsky Concerto (complete) and a group of virtuoso pieces.

Last night the audience wildly demanded reappearances—taken very coolly by the young virtuoso—and at the end he played Dvorak's "Humoreske" entirely in harmonics double-stops and all.

In the interval the boy was examining a gift fountain pen which gave him more pleasure than the bouquets of flowers. A healthy boy, full of charm and a phenomenal artist.

General Bliss Declares World Is Ready For Armament Reductions

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Jan. 12.—The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Daniels, submitted to the House of Representatives Naval Committee today what he described as approximately complete data relative to the sea strength of the three great naval powers, for the purpose of showing that there had never been a time more favorable for a movement towards the limitation of naval armaments.

General Bliss, the former American representative on the Supreme War Council in Paris, said he believed that if the United States called a full, free and fair international discussion on the reduction of armaments, a favorable response would be prompt and inevitable.

General Bliss went on to say that the impression he had gathered in the course of conversations with various Premiers at the Peace Conference was that the world powers were sincerely desirous of a disarmament agreement.

General Bliss declared that any nation which, attending such a conference as he suggested, should refuse to agree to any proposal looking to disarmament might be written down as the next Germany, and the United States could make her plans accordingly.

TWO ARMED ROBBERIES

Two armed robberies were reported in the Settlement yesterday, the robbers in one case being frightened away before they had secured any loot.

At about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon five men, one displaying a revolver, entered a house in the Dong Ka Loong, West Hongkew district. On their entry one of the women inmates slipped out a back door and called a policeman and the men bolted, firing no shots.

The second affair occurred at 10:30 o'clock last night when four men, two armed with revolvers held up a cigarette shop at 315 Hailer Road. They got $17 Mex. and some 500 coppers.

ENTERTAINMENT AT NAVY 'Y'

Tonight at 7:30 p.m. there will be the usual monthly "at home" dinner for sailors under the auspices of the Social Welfare Department of the American Woman's Club.

Following the dinner there will be a fine exhibition of magic by Mr. H. C. Wentworth of the Standard Oil Company.

The orchestra of the U.S.S. New Orleans will furnish music both for the dinner hour and for those who care to dance. It is expected that a number of friends will be present including the young ladies of the Womans Overseas Club.

Smiles from the Mixed Court

Tsu Dong-sling who is a seller of cigarettes was doing so at the usual rates in his shop on Yangtszepoo Road the other afternoon when the flow of custom brought along Sung Yoong-sing. Sung named his particular brand and tossed a 20-cent piece upon the counter.

The coin hit the mahogany with an uninspiring sort of clink and Tsu picked it up, looked at it and bit a large chunk out of its southeast corner. He showed the mutilated piece to Sung, who apologised and said he hadn't known that he was carrying any lead currency with him. He then counted out the requisite number of coppers and departed.

Shortly thereafter, when an assistant was on duty dealing out the smokes, Sung reappeared, called for a package of the shop's cheapest and slid a 20-cent piece across the bar. The assistant was also a connoisseur in the matter of monies and he picked up the coin, scanned it expertly and gave it the molar test. He showed Sung the damage which this wrought on the piece and Sung said he was very sorry that anything of the sort had happened, and produced another 20-cent piece. This coin gave the assistant's dental array even less of a contest than the first one had and Sung was reaching for his pocket again when Tsu came back into the shop. He took in the situation in less than a glance and slipped round the end of the counter. Sung saw him coming and began going somewhere else very earnestly. Tsu started just as determinedly in the same direction and the pair of them hit the street with grand emphasis as the shopkeeper made a flying tackle, while bystanders made admiring remarks.

Previous to this a pedestrian, who saw the fugitive throw something to the ground investigated and gathered up four imitation 20-cent pieces. They were such unconvincing imitations that he turned them over to the Chinese police constable who came along about this time to see what was going on and take Sung to the station.

Sung was very indignant. They weren't his coins he said, and he hadn't tried to pass them on the tobacconist, and he hadn't run away when the tobacconist objected. What had actually happened was: he had come to the shop equipped with perfectly good money to buy a packet of cigarettes and this Tsu had taken the counterfeit coins out of a drawer and tried to sell them to him at bargain rates. When he sternly refused to be tempted Tsu had threatened to punch his jaw—and that was why he was going away from there.

In the face of considerable other testimony Sung's story rang about as true as one of the coins involved and the Court felt compelled to withdraw him from circulation for three months.

Ice Breaker Is Adrift; Commander Gives Up All Hope

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Jan 13.—Press despatches from North Saghalien report that the Russian ice-breaker Baikal is adrift in a floe of ice, and has been without supplies since January 10 with a crew of 60 Japanese on board.

The commander has sent a wireless message, saying he has abandoned hope of rescue, and consigned his fate to Heaven. The Japanese will attempt to rescue the vessel, after locating her by seaplane.

Morocco Campaign Thought Successfu

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Jan. 12.—Last year's campaign against the Zaian natives in Morocco is bearing fruit.

It is reported that the rebels, confined to the high mountains, send out daily skirmishing parties in an effort to extricate themselves, but these are invariably repulsed with heavy losses.

RAID ON ORIENTALS

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Jan. 12.—A round-up of Oriental ineligibles is to be launched on January 22.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The officials of the State Department, Labor Department and Department of Justice profess to know nothing about the round-up of Oriental ineligibles which has been announced from New York. An official of the Labor Department said several raids on aliens had been made lately, and undoubtedly others were pending.

Japanese Loan Is Source Of Fuss In Shantung House

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, January 11.—A considerable fuss has recently been raised in the Shantung Provincial Assembly through the public accusation of an Assemblyman that the Shantung Commissioner of Finance has obtained a loan of $300,000 from a Japanese bank. The Finance office denies that it has made such a loan, but admits that it has underwritten a loan of this amount borrowed by the Shantung Bank from a Japanese source.

The disclosure has involved and thrown into disrepute the provincial party of Chung Tzi-ching, which has been the most active in advocating the return to the Shantung governorship of the present Minister of Finance Chow Tsu-chi.

legal proceedings to authorise the placing of a second connection with the S.M.C.—and threatened to ignore the Council if it refused.

HAS DEFIED CONTRACTS

In defiance of contracts, the Company has signed with the Electricity Department of the S.M.C. an agreement for ten years for power amounting to 3,500 kilowatts, thus showing that they will continue to act as they please.

What is the use of insisting further?

To settle the question, for it must be settled once for all and the sooner the better, two ways offer themselves to us:

1.—Start proceedings against the Company. As the Court in Shanghai has declared itself at different times incompetent to judge this matter, we must go before the Council of State at Paris. It is even possible that this latter will declare itself incompetent. By these legal proceedings we must not expect to have things settled for some years.

2.—The taking over of the Company, proposed on the 7th of October and put off until the 9th of March at the memorable meeting of December 9.

This is the only practicable method open to us. The water and electricity works and the tramways will be worked as usual but the receipts, instead of going to the Company, will be turned over to the Municipality.

The Company will then be forced to discuss matters with us. It will be we this time who will have the upper hand.

TO FORCE DISCUSSION

The Company will certainly sue us; in any case we cannot escape this, besides in this case the absence of jurisdiction will be turned against the Company. We are sure the Company will resent and will not wait many years, deprived of its profits, to await the legal solution.

Moreover, if the Company refuses to discuss matters, then the taking over of the Company will be definite and the Company will lose its rights.

It is time to call this habitual bluff of the Company.

As Mr. Arnhold said at the pre-election meeting: "Let the Company sue us." This opinion is unanimous.

We consider that the elections give the new Council imperative authority and we consider ourselves as bound by our program.

We will distribute to the ratepayers a pamphlet stating our program. This will be translated in English as requested by Mr. Lockhart.

We will do our best to do well the task you have alotted to us which, as cannot be denied, is a difficult one. The Company is a strong adversary.

URGES CONTINUED SUPPORT

We beg the ratepayers, after the splendid effort they made at the election not to remain lukewarm. It is probable that we may have further need of your support and that another general meeting may soon be necessary.

We hope that the electors will support us and that we will remain united in the fight we are making in defense of common interests.

Tells Of Famine Relief Under American Red Cross

every confidence in his ability to handle the task before him.

NEW OFFICIALS ARRIVE

On January 2, 1921, Mr. E. Alfred Davies, Capt. W. Halshall, Mrs. B. E. Lyon arrived in Peking Mr. Davies immediately took over the work of Director of Accounts and Capt. Halshall, as his deputy, is proceeding to Tehchow to take in hand field accounts. Mr. Cornwell, the former Auditor, I have appointed Assistant Director with powers to act in my absence from the Peking office.

Because of these developments and for the reason that the situation in the field in the Commissary was becoming somewhat difficult, the field organisation has been revised by raising the Commissary Division to the rank of a department, with Mr. Paul MacLechron as Chief of Commissary. Dr. Tucker will remain as Superintendent of Relief, having direction of the Recruiting and Health Divisions. He will also be considered senior department head in the field and as such will be charged with the duty of effecting co-operation between the departments there.

The Health Department so far has made only the beginnings of organisation, but preparations are under way for the prevention of typhus. This work will probably be made uniform with that of other societies working in various relief fields.

ROAD WORK PROGRESSING

Engineering.—The Engineering Department reports 3,700 men now employed in road construction. These men are in charge of six division engineers, each assisted by a foreigner. These division engineers at present are sergeants from the Marine Corps and their assistants are privates from the Marine Corps. Six thousand eight hundred yards of highway have been completed, 900 yards additional are 75 percent complete, 600 are 50 percent complete, and work has been commenced in three additional divisions extending over the first third of the distance between Tehchow and Lintsing. The attached map will show the extent of line completed and under construction; also the district upon which a skeleton organisation is ready to begin construction. The entire line from Tehchow to Lintsing has been staked out and two-thirds of the land has been acquired.

The morale of the people in our district is excellent, although they are weakening, and no untoward incidents have occurred. The recruiting officers report that in one small district we arrived rather too late. A census of the families showed that all of the girls between the ages of nine and fifteen in two villages had been sold. Again I observed, while the unloading of our cargo in Tehchow was in process, that the workmen who had been in our employ for two or three weeks were able to carry a heavy sack of pears 200 yards to the stockade. At least the more rugged and stalwart were. Weaker members of the original forces were required to act in pairs, but the fresh recruits had to work in fours in order to stand up under the same load.

Respectfully submitted,
The American Red Cross,
China Famine Relief,
J. E. Baker,
per Wm. W. Cornwell.

PORTUGUESE ORGANISING

Women's Relief Body Sends Much Clothing

The packing committee of the Women's Famine Relief Society has been hard at work all this week and has packed 109 cases. This work is being undertaken by Mrs. J. Douglas and a committee of ladies, who are sometimes occupied for a whole day in dealing with the garments. Mrs. Douglas is to be congratulated on her splendid organisation, and for the amount of energy that her Committee displays.

The Import and Export Lumber Co. have been most generous with their gift of cases. Already 225 have been given by them, and the Society is indeed grateful for their splendid help, thereby making it possible for clothing to be sent safely into the famine districts.

Messrs. Arnhold Bros. have again sent a generous donation of cotton wool.

Four hundred padded garments, together with 11 cases containing 2,000 lbs. of cakes have been received from the Cantonese Baptist Church, for which the Society wishes to express its grateful thanks.

SELLING RAFFLE TICKETS

The working parties are doing splendid work. In addition to their weekly sewing parties, members and friends of Mesdames Cranston's, Ivy's and Gauntlett's parties are providing money to pay tailors to help make garments.

Raffle tickets for the three pieces of statuary displayed in Messrs. Boyes Bassett and Co.'s window are on sale at Messrs. Boyes Bassett and Co., Lane Crawford and Co., Hall and Holtz, Ltd.; Weeks and Co. or from Mrs. O. M. Green, 54 Avenue du Roi Albert, and people are reminded that the $5 spent on a ticket may win them a lovely statue and will anyway give them the satisfaction of knowing that they are helping to save a life.

We publish today a balance sheet showing the exact amount of funds on hand, and earnestly appeal for further money to carry on the work.

Clothing received at the depots since last report:—Mesdames Rolke, Herlofsen, Trindle, A. M. M. Girls of B. Eliza Yates School, 10 garments from Ladies of the Chinese Presbyterian Church, padded clothes from St. John's College; one piece of serge from Mrs. Kay.

Fleeing Thief Struck By Tram

The mafoo in charge of a Municipal watering cart was seriously hurt, suffering a compound fracture of the skull, and a handcart coolie was similarly injured Wednesday afternoon when the pony attached to the cart became frightened at a steam roller on the Yangtszepoo Road and bolted, running into a tram trailer. The mafoo was hurled to the pavement and the cart struck the coolie, knocking him down. Both men are at St. Luke's Hospital.

Coincidently, another coolie, at about the same time and on the same Road was struck by a tram and is believed to have sustained concussion of the brain. He had just stolen a quantity of leaf tobacco from a handcart and was running across the street. If he recovers he will be charged in the Mixed Court.

WOOLEN PRICES CUT

(Reuter's Service)

London, Jan. 12.—A Scottish woollen manufacturer has circularised his customers, offering a reduction of two shillings a yard for his cloths, in order, as he states, to dispose of his stocks and cut his unprecedented losses.

It appears that Scottish manufacturers have received payment of German debts through the Clearing House, but though the amounts thus received have been large, they have been more than swallowed up by the scarcity of capital.

Asks Shop Of Man Who Killed Husband

As compensation for the loss of her husband the widow of a Chinese who was recently beaten to death in Boone Road appealed to the Mixed Court yesterday for the handing over to her of the shop of the man alleged to have committed the murder. This man has since fled. Mr. J. Em Lemiere, appearing for the applicant, asked that either the place be turned over to his client or that the goods be put up for auction. The Court held that a civil action should be taken and Mr. Lemiere indicated that he would file such a suit immediately. In the meantime the property will remain under the jurisdiction of the Court.

BOSTON COLLEGE GETS SECOND PLACE WITH PITTSBURGH THIRD IN NEW YORK TRIBUNE RANKING

Penn State Drops From High Pinnacle Of Last Year To 4th Position—Dartmouth Placed Above Syracuse Despite Outcome Of Game Between Them

(From The New York Tribune)

Trouble we have with us always. So wrote some noted poet, or perhaps he wasn't noted. Nevertheless, the expression fits in nicely for our lead. Today we are issuing our ranking of the Eastern football teams. It doesn't mean much and it won't help solve the problems of the world. But we put it forth just the same, in the hope that it may be of interest to lovers of the great game of football and to those interested in college activities.

If personal opinion were responsible for this rating it might be turned upside down. For instance, we believe there are a couple of teams ranked below others that are probably better outfits, but speaking mathematically, these same teams figure better than those we have ranked lower. Somebody may hasten to remark at this point that as a "math" shark our rank would be very rank, indeed. We admit it. In school it was always so.

However, looking over the records, viewing the various performances of the teams from various angles—that is, from the records from strength of opponents and from the entire season's record instead of from one game—we have decided that the list as made out is as fair and as logical as we can possibly make it.

ARGUMENTS LOOKED FOR

We know all about the arguments that will be presented. That Harvard tied Princeton, and a tie is a tie, whether worn around the neck or on the football field. But if this same theory held true in all things of life most of us would have just as much as the other fellow, being as how we are all created free and equal.

Well, this is the simplest analogy we can draw: The New York Yankees won both the Cleveland and the Chicago baseball series this year, and yet both of these teams finished ahead of the New Yorkers in the pennant race. One may argue the locals are a better nine than either the Indians or the White Sox, but the main point is that the players of those teams collected the dough—legitimately, we mean.

Thus, if football teams here in the East were in a league and were ranked according to percentages, Princeton would top the list. That at least is the way we figure it. How about our personal opinion on the matter? did we hear somebody ask. Well, we think the Tigers are probably the best, although we also think that Pittsburgh and Boston College would make the Nassau students travel a swifter pace than any other eleven to get the decision.

But there isn't a doubt Bill Roper turned out a mighty fine combination this fall. It comprised about everything a first class team must have—speed, versatility, strength—that is, physically—a couple of fine ends, a grand little quarterback, a powerful line and a backfield that was capable both on offense and defense.

The team's defense virtually was perfect. Harvard did manage to cross it in the last few minutes of play with a few passes, but we doubt if the Crimson could have repeated. For when the Tigers met Yale they had bolstered their defense for forward passes, and the Elis were practically helpless when it came to advancing the ball.

A VARIED ATTACK

On offense the Orange and Black, as stated above, had a varied attack to go with its power. What is more, the Tigers showed constant improvement, and when they played Yale they were a wellnigh perfect eleven. They had a fine record for the season against formidable opposition—one tie in seven games. With the exception of Pittsburgh, and possibly Brown and Dartmouth, the Princetonians had as hard a schedule as any of them.

Had Boston College played through a harder schedule we would have placed it at the top. The Maroon went through undefeated, toppling such good ones as Yale, Georgetown and Holy Cross, besides beating Springfield, Marietta, Fordham, Tufts and Boston University. And in no struggle except the Yale game was this crew of Frank Cavanaugh's extended.

Like Princeton, the Bostonians possessed all the essentials of a first-class football team. Great ends, strong line, fine punter, sturdy on defense and capable and versatile on offense.

Pittsburgh was a great football team this year—make no mistake about that. It went through the hardest schedule of them all, suffering but two ties. And a Pitt adherent can easily point out to you how the Panthers would have won both of those game if it had got the breaks. We do believe it should have beaten Penn State on Thanksgiving day—that game was a scoreless tie. Syracuse was the other team to get a draw with Glenn Warner's crew, 7 to 7.

DEFEATED STRONG TEAMS

The Panthers played and defeated Geneva, West Virginia, Georgia Tech, one of the greatest teams in the country; Lafayette, another fine eleven; Pennsylvania, and Washington and Jefferson. What do you think of that list? So do we. We can only say it's too bad for Pitt it was held to a tie twice.

Penn State did exceptionally well with a bulky and formidable list of opponents. Early in the season it won a fierce battle from Dartmouth and it seemed as though the Lions were never quite the same afterward. They were tied by Lehigh, although the way the Lehigh players performed that day they would have tied anybody, and they were tied or rather did hold Pitt to a tie. So State gets fourth place.

Harvard's schedule wasn't any too exacting. It had opposition to be sure, but the Crimson didn't have to start with the first game like Pitt and battle through each nd every contest to the bitter end. It simply hurdled most of its opponents, developing gradually or Yale and Princeton.

That's all right though. It's none of our business whom Harvard plays, but if it chooses to pick a soft schedule it shouldn't complain if it isn't awarded championship honors.

Dartmouth is placed above Syracuse despite the fact the Orange defeated the Green in its own back yard, a feat that no other eleven has accomplished since the time "Buck" O'Neill's Colgate eleven trimmed the Green at Hanover in 1905. But we revert to our "math" schedule in this instance and to the Yankees-Cleveland-Chicago analogy in justifying our placement of Dartmouth above Syracuse.

NAVY FINISHED STRONG

The Navy, which started sluggishly and out of step, but which found itself immediately after the Princeton tussle and which after that came like an ocean liner on a record trip, gets eighth place. We'll say this for the middies—in the Army game they showed a line the like of which we haven't seen this year and which was probably stronger than any other excepting Lafayette.

Yale's season, because of defeats by Harvard and Princeton, is considered a flat failure by adherents of the Blue. But it wasn't so bad as all that. And if it hadn't been for injuries we suspect the Bulldog would have done considerably better. Victories over Carnegie Tech, North Carolina, West Virginia, Colgate and Brown entitle the Blue to some credit. Therefore, we are placing Yale ninth on the list.

Lafayette and Brown follow in the order named, both two fine little teams that did well. Why the Eastonians didn't do much better is a mystery to us. They were beaten by the Navy, which team they outplayed. They were trimmed by Old Penn, which eleven they also outplayed. But scores are scores, and the results show victories for the Navy and Penn over Lafayette and that is all we can go by.

Pennsylvania, Washington and Jefferson, the Army and Cornell complete the first fifteen. All of these teams were pretty evenly matched, as were the next five—Georgetown, Holy Cross, Lehigh, West Virginia and Stevens.

ATHLETIC FIELD PLAN FOR CHEFOO; NAME COMMITTEE

British, Americans And Chinese Unite In Move For Recreation Ground

(China Press Correspondence)

Chefoo, January 6.—Plans are being formulated by local prominent British, American and Chinese sportsmen to secure a good sized recreation ground. A committee has been appointed to devise means of acquiring a lot.

Thus the great need of a space for matches was emphasised when the Weihaiwei football team came here. At present the authorities depend upon the C. I. M. School boys faculty for the loan of their ground. A port like this which is visited by warships, ought to possess a playing field of its own.

Therefore plans are already on foot for acquiring the large open space across at the Second Beach at the back of the Netherlands Harbor Works. Even if this ground can be secured, a big amount of money and labor will have to be expended upon it before it can be turned into a suitable playing ground.

If the present opportunity is not utilised, it will be too late, and Chefoo residents will have lost their only chance of getting for the port a good-sized ground suitable for the playing of games.

A committee of foreigners and Chinese has been formed to make plans for the purchasing of the ground and a society called the American, British and Chinese Association has been inaugurated for fostering friendly feelings between the various nationals in the port.

It is expected that the American Y.M.C.A., the Red Cross and the American Navy will contribute. If, as is rumored, the American Fleet is coming here this next summer, then it is high time something was done towards getting the ground. What will the large numbers of men do when ashore if there is no playing field for them? Brothels and grog shops will be legion. They will spring from everywhere. Temptations simply stare the men in the face in a place like this where there is nothing for them to do when ashore. With a fine Recreation Ground, tea houses and places where they can get refreshments at reasonable prices adjoining, the community is providing them with healthy forms of amusement.

Chefoo needs a good size Recreation Ground almost as much as it needs the Railway from here to Weihsien. Fortunately there are some good men on the job and so it ought not to be long before we hear that the space has been secured and that arrangements are in hand for the making of it into the suitable ground the conditions require.

Mutt And Jeff Of Basketball

Basketball is at the height of its popularity. Practically every hall in the United States boasts of its "five," and nightly games draw thousands of sport followers. The St. James Crowns, of Brooklyn, N. Y., one of the fastest heavyweight teams in the country, boast of having the tallest and shortest heavyweight players in the game. The photo shows Tommy Sullivan, who reaches skyward six feet three inches, holding in his arms "Bud" Malone, who is but five feet three inches.

AMERICAN SOCCER TEAM SELECTED FOR TOMORROW

Yankees To Make Debut In Local Association Football Saturday Afternoon

The American soccer team, which is to meet the eleven representing England, in the international cup series tomorrow afternoon, was selected yesterday. The Yankees have a pretty fair lineup with which to make their debut in the series for the trophy.

Jerry Canda, Oliveros, V. Elliott, E. T. McQuade, Freddie Ollerdessen, T. Kabelitz, Hudson, Jimmy Katz, J. MacLachlan, G. MacLachlan and Brewster will represent the United States with L. Canda and W. Noble on hand as reserves.

Harry Ollerdessen is going up country and thus will not be in the American lineup. An attempt will be made to get H. D. Rodger in a suit.

Manager Johnny Knowlan of the American football team will be asked to lend jerseys to the soccer men and American emblems will be sewed on them.

England will be represented by J. L. Wade; W. J. Brown, B. H. Smith, J. Clissold, Knight of the Police, Davis, Customs; A. F. Deer, T. S. D. Wade, Captain Forshaw, Coulcher and Ogden with Powers, R. J. Harris, C. K. Smith and Reed for reserves.

In the match against Scotland the team representing Portugal will lineup as follows:

Messrs. A. H. Remedios, J. Collaco, C. J. Encarnacao (Capt.) W. Favacho, H. Favacho, N. Collaco, F. Gutierrez, G. Silva, J. Silva, C. Passos, J. Gutierrez.

Reserves: A. L. Aguiar, F. X. Gutierrez.

ATHLETIC ORGANISATION, WITH BASEBALL CLUB AS NUCLEUS, SUGGESTED FOR AMERICANS

Central Body, To Govern All Form Of Sports For Yankees, Would Assure Success Of So-Called "Minor" Games Now Springing Up

The advent of the American athletic community into soccer football, the desirability of assuring at least one American football game each year and the possibility of Americans entering the realm of English "rugger" suggests the organisation of an American sports club which would administer all branches of athletics in which Shanghai Americans take part. The Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club suggests itself as the nucleus for such an organisation.

The one difficulty with the so-called minor sports—which are in reality minor sports here—is that they are not self-supporting. The province of any athletic organisation is to foster interest in sports for the nationals numbered among its members.

The baseball club is capable of making enough money to make possible soccer football, American football and English rugby, with the assistance, of course, of those who are interested in these games.

CENTRAL CLUB NEEDED

The baseball club indeed fulfills its province by giving Shanghai good baseball during the Summer months. It has the opportunity through financial assistance, to assure success for these sports in addition to meeting the demands made on it as an organisation.

Regardless of the showing of the soccer team sporting the emblem of the United States in the game against England tomorrow it encouragingly suggests the entry of an American eleven in the soccer league next season and another American eleven contesting for the International Cup.

American football is certain to be played at least once and the members of the civilian team that played against the Navy last Saturday are all excited over the possibilities of English rugby.

LOOKS TO FUTURE

These men are willing to contribute to the support of the teams of which they are members but the suggestion for a central organisation, with the administrative power vested in the baseball club, which has system, a large membership and experience, certainly is worthy of thought.

In setting forth this proposition today the writer deigns to interest the American sporting community here. We would like to know what the American athlete and the American sport follower thinks of the idea.

It is a subject for the hot-stove league, a topic for discussion among those interested in the participation by Americans in various forms of port here. THE CHINA PRESS will welcome expressions of opinion.

REST FOR MOTHERS

How many babies wake up just about the mother's bed-time and keep her busy for a good part of the night. The mother may not see anything apparently the matter with the child, but she may depend upon it that when baby is cross and sleepless there is something wrong, and the little one is taking the only means he has of telling it.

Under such circumstances Baby's Own Tablets are just the friend needed. They contain no opiates, but send baby to sleep simply because they remove the cause of his sleeplessness and make him feel well and comfortable. They are recommended for teething troubles, constipation, diarrhoea, colic, fever, indigestion and worms; they promote appetite and regular development.

Interchange Of Ideas And Men To Promote Colonies, Says Official

(Reuter's Service)

London, January 13.—The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Lord Milner, spoke in a valedictory strain while presiding at a farewell luncheon to the Earl of Stradbroke, Governor-Designate of Victoria, here today.

He expressed the opinion that the position of Governor was not a whit less important or influential in the Dominions than under Crown Administration.

A Governor, like a King, reigned but did not govern, and, he declared, that communities were delighted to uphold the position where the Governor possessed personality and character.

LOCAL INFLUENCE

Pursuing his contention, he pointed out that the influence and importance of the Crown was increasing in Great Britain under democratic Government. He described the supposition that Governors had a sinecure as a great error. He also emphasised the fact that nobody would force State Governors from here upon the Australians if the latter desired local appointments.

Replying to a toast to his health, Lord Milner took advantage of probably his last opportunity of addressing a company which was so largely representative of the Dominions, to say that during the past two years at the Colonial Office he had met with nothing but the greatest kindness, sympathy and cordial co-operation from visiting Dominion Premiers, Ministers, High Commissioners, Agents-General and pressmen connected with the Dominions.

CONSTANT FLOW OF MEN

He believed that he had derived great advantage, in his administration of the Colonial Office, from his past experience as a Colonial Governor. He was convinced that successful administration of the Colonies and the maintenance of good relations between Great Britain and the self-governing Dominions would be promoted by a constant flow of men backwards and forwards and by making sure that men responsible for the administration in Great Britain of affairs connected with the Empire were men who so far as possible had personal experience of the difficulties and conditions of the countries with which they had to deal.

Lord Milner's speech was heartily applauded.

Washington, Jan. 12.—The question of the deportation of Mr. O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, has been referred to President Wilson.

London, Jan. 12.—The Star states that Dublin Castle has discovered the whereabouts of de Valera in Ireland, how he landed, and with whom he is conferring, and has given instructions that he is not to be arrested unless he delivers a seditious speech.

His proclamation to the Irish people is expected shortly, and upon this, it is thought, the fate of the reconciliation movement largely depends.

Meanwhile, the Government is waiting for the Sinn Fein members of Parliament to define their position.

London, Jan. 12.—A large body of Sinn Feiners placed boulders on the line and derailed a troop train in County Donegal. They then opened a heavy fusilade but fortunately there were no casualties among the troops.

This is the first deliberate organised attack to be made upon a troop train.

Melbourne, Jan. 12.—The Federal Government has ordered the liberation of Mr. Osmond Esmonde, who was refused permission to land at Sydney, and who claims that he is engaged in a diplomatic mission in connection with Home Rule, on condition that he takes the oath of allegiance.

Mr. Esmonde was previously forbidden to land at Auckland.

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor write as follows in their weekly share report dated Hongkong, December 30, 1920.

There has been very little business doing owing to the holidays, and in fact our market has only been open for three and a half days during the week.

The Rubber market continues featureless.

In Shanghai the market has been very quiet with practically nothing doing.

Canton Insurances.—Are steady with buyers at $370.

Union Insurances.—Are wanted at $208.

Wharves.—Are steady at $92.

Hongkong Docks.—Are in good demand at $162.

Deferred Indos.—London Register shares are quoted at £31 and Hongkong Register shares are nominal at $190.

China Sugars.—Are firmer with buyers at $212.

Douglases.—Have buyers at $63.

Steamboats.—Are on offer at $24½ with buyers at $24.

Hongkong Trams.—Are firm at $7¼.

Hongkong Electrics.—Have been done at $18½.

Freight Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their freight market report dated January 13.

The situation in our Outward Freight market is as follows:

To United Kingdom and Continent.—The situation as regards the amount of cargo offering for export remains unchanged and the only information of interest to shippers is the fact that since last writing the London Conference Lines have dropped their Homeward rates 25 percent all around with the exception of seeds, beans and peas, the rate on which had been lowered about two weeks ago.

To United States via Pacific and via Panama and Suez.—There is no change to report on this berth as far as cargo is concerned.

Coastwise.—This market shows a slight improvement as far as the "liners" on the regular trade runs are concerned but otherwise there is very little "outside" business offering.

Coal Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their coal market report dated January 13.

Japan Coal.—The continual downward trend of exchange makes it very difficult to do any new business in the higher priced Japanese coals but a certain amount of business has been done during the past two weeks in the cheaper kinds of dust coal.

Fushun Coal.—We are given to understand that two of the principal Japanese Steamship Lines intend making Dalny a port of call in future for bunkering purposes and this will probably have the effect of reducing to a certain extent the amount of coal available for export.

Kaiping Coal.—No considerable change is reported regarding the transportation difficulties in the North.

Supplies under contract for Industrial and Household use are being maintained leaving no margin for the accumulation of stocks in local yards—Most of the 1921 contracts have been arranged on terms slightly in advance of last year's prices.

The Immigration Issue

THE United States Senate Committee on Immigration, after a lengthy investigation has, according to Reuter, decided that "there is no emergency justifying the prohibition of immigration for one year, as provided for in the Johnson Bill. They declare that the charge that millions of aliens will otherwise flood the country, increase unemployment and create chaos, is unproved."

And there the agitation against European immigration probably will end. At least this decision may be interpreted as forecasting the defeat of any such legislation as that proposed by Representative Johnson of Washington. The movement to stop all immigration probably arose out of the report that there were 25,000,000 Europeans all packed up and ready to swarm into the United States at the earliest possible moment. This taken in connection with the fact that some two millions of Americans already are out of work, started a hue and cry up and down the country.

The New York Herald however pointed out that while we were in the war we used everything that would float, Great Britain used everything that would float and so did Canada, and other countries, and it took us much more than a year to transport 2,000,000 American soldiers to Europe.

This argument recalls the one that President Lincoln advanced when it was proposed to settle the slavery problem by deporting all the negroes. "Why" he said, "that won't do. They're being born faster than you can build ships in which to carry them away."

The Herald also sagely said: "If there were ships enough to ferry 25,000,000 people from all the regions of Europe to all the ports of the United States there wouldn't be ready money to pay the 25,000,000 passages and meet the financial requirements of our admittance terms. A per capita ship cost and entrance fund of only $200 for 25,000,000 immigrants would take five billions of dollars in real money, cold cash. All Continental Europe raked from end to end and scraped clean couldn't produce the five billions of dollars in real money and cold cash."

As a matter of fact, for the last year every ship from Europe has been loaded with immigrants. And yet the numbers have failed to equal those entering year in and year out before the war.

Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, after reviewing the situation has reached the conclusion that the solution lies in the establishment of some sort of preferential selective scheme, whereby only those who wish to go into farming lines are admitted. But as he points out, this discriminatory legislation cannot be enacted without first amending the Constitution. So here comes the Twentieth Amendment, right after Prohibition and Woman's suffrage.

Interesting If Not Significant

(From the Springfield Union)

The fact that the automobile truck which backed into and considerably damaged the Woman's Christian Temperance Union drinking fountain in Palmer, was loaded with grapes, invested the episode with extra interest, if not significance, and invited speculation as to the ultimate destination of the grapes.

The League In Action

(New York Tribune)

Is the League of Nations a super state? In spite of the oceans of commentary and of partisan argument that have surged over the Covenant, the meeting at Geneva, with the League in operation, was needed to give the world a clear understanding of the actual powers it conferred.

At the San Sebastian conference of the Council last August, as we have pointed out, Mr. Balfour was of the opinion that under the written Constitution of the League it was possible to define the rival powers of Council and Assembly by building up "a body of unwritten law based upon actual experience and precedent." The head of the Legal Section, Dr. van Hamel of Holland, formally confirmed this opinion. But when the attempt was made at Geneva it very soon appeared that the representatives were powerless to amend, extend or in any way modify the provisions of the Covenant. Dr. van Hamel reversed himself, declaring that authority was vested, not in the representatives, but in the treaty-making power of the member nations. Young Honorio Pueyrredon of Argentina arrived at Geneva with a similarly exalted conception of the power of the representatives—and has gone home in a huff with his mind, as it seems, still closed to the light. The fact is that, by and large, very few and comparatively unimportant powers are vested in the Geneva representatives, final authority in all matters of moment, with possibly a single exception, being reserved for the member nations.

The distinction is nowhere more clearly evident than in Article XXIII., which has been a center of controversy at Geneva during the past week. This relates to action with regard to six matters of great, but by no means primary, importance—(a) labor; (b) natives in controlled territory; (c) traffic in women and children and in drugs; (d) supervision of the trade in arms in countries in which it is necessary; (e) freedom of communication and of commerce, and (f) control of disease. Four of these matters are reserved for direct action by "Members of the League"—that is, by the home Governments. In only two cases do the "Members of the League" "entrust the League" with final authority. These are (c) the traffic in women and children and in opium and (d) the supervision of the trade in arms in countries in which it is necessary—the only matters in which authority can be delegated wisely and without serious abatement of the sovereignty of the member nations.

In more important matters the method of operation is the same; and of this also the last week has afforded a striking example, namely, in the Armenian crisis. The situation, according to our cable from Mr. James, was as follows: M. Viviani came to Geneva with instructions from M. Leygues to do all he could for the admission of Armenia into the League. So he launched a demand for negotiations with Mustapha Kemal, foreseeing that, if the Assembly agreed to this, the delimitation of the boundaries of Armenia and its admission into the League must follow. He persuaded the Assembly to take action which resulted in the plan for mediation by President Wilson, Brazil and Spain. But over night, as it happened, the status of Armenia was transformed. Between the devil of Mustapha Kemal and the deep sea of Bolshevism, it was obliged to accept conditions inconsistent with the character of a member of the League. On the eve of Viviani's success, instructions came from London that the matter be dropped. "Being controlled by the big Powers, the committee [of the League Council] has decided against Armenia." Obviously, no fault attaches either to the member nations involved or to Viviani. The changed situation required a different line of action. Obviously, also, power under the League is wielded not by the assembled representatives, but by the home Governments.

How far these instances are characteristic of the Covenant as a whole it is perhaps not safe to say until all the articles have been subjected to the test of action. Yet those who read the text hereafter will give full force to the distinction, which it everywhere observes, between "Members of the League" and the League itself. Thus far the representatives at Geneva have appeared only as directly amenable to instructions from their home Governments. As such they constitute an instrument for debating the affairs of mankind, for popularising and facilitating combined action, which promises to have an influence hitherto inconceivable not only upon the promotion of peace, but also upon rendering effective all the enlightened purposes of the civilised world.

The most interesting problem—and one that has not been solved—is woman. Now, please ladies, don't think for a single second that this is any reflection upon you. Things that are most precious call for the highest analysis.

There is a story in one of the very old books that goes as follows:

Adam went to his Creator and asked that he take away the woman that had been given to him. When the first lady of the land was withdrawn, Adam again called to his Master and asked that the woman should be given back again. He couldn't do with her—he couldn't do without her. And thereby hangs a tale. And so I have delved among the classics and herewith give you some of their ideas about women:

* * *

O wasteful woman—she who may
On her sweet self set her own price
(A man, he cannot choose but pay)
How has she cheapened Paradise!
How given for nought her precious gift,
How spoiled the bread and spilt the wine;
Which spent with due respective thrift
Had made brutes men, and men divine.

Coventry Patmore.

As unto the bow the cord is
So unto the man is woman;
Though she bends him, she obeys him,
Though she draws him, yet she follows
Useless each without the other.

Longfellow.

O woman! lovely woman! nature made thee
To temper man; we had been brutes without you.
Angels are painted fair to look like you:
There's in you all that we believe of Heaven—
Amazing brightness, purity and truth,
Eternal joy and everlasting love.

* * *

What mighty ills have not been done by woman.
Who was't betrayed the Capitol? A woman.
Who lost Mark Antony the world? A woman.
Who was the cause of a long ten years' war
And laid at last old Troy in ashes? Woman.
Destructive damnable, deceitful woman.

Otway.

I will be master of what is mine own;
She is my goods, my chattels; she is my house.
My household stuff, my field, my barn.
My horse, my ox, my ass, my anything—

Shakespeare

A Being breathing thoughtful breath,
A Traveller between life and death;
The reason firm, the temperate will.
Endurance, foresight, strength and skill.
A perfect Woman nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort and command,
And yet a Spirit still and bright
With something of angelic light.

Wordsworth.

The woman's cause is man's; they rise or sink
Together, dwarfed or godlike, bond or free.

* * *

For woman is not undevelopt man
But diverse; could we make her as the man,
Sweet love were slain; his dearest bond is this,
Not like to like, but like in difference.
Yet in the long years liker must they grow;
The man be more of woman, she of man;
He gain in sweetness and moral height,
Nor lose the wrestling thews that throw the world;
She mental breadth, nor fail in childward care,
Nor lose the childlike in the larger mind;
Till at the last she set herself to man,
Like perfect music unto noble words;
And as these twain, upon the skirts of Time,
Sit side by side, full-summ'd in all their powers,
Dispensing Harvest, sowing the To-Be,
Self-rev'rent each, and reverencing each,
Distinct in individualities,
But like each other ev'n as those who love,
Then comes the statelier Eden back to men;
Then reign the world's great bridals chaste and calm;
Then springs the crowning race of human-kind,
May these things be!

Anon.

So absolute she seems,
And in herself complete; so well to know
Her own, what she wills to do or say,
Seems wisest, virtuousest, discreetest, best.
All higher knowledge in her presence falls
Degraded! . . .
Authority and reason on her wait,
As one intended first, not after made
Occasionally; and to consummate all,
Greatness of mind, and Nobleness their seat
Build in her, loveliest, and create an awe
About her, as a guard angelic placed.

John Milton.

She who knows not, and knows not that she knows not is a fool;
Shun her.
She who knows not, and knows that she knows not, is simple:
Teach her.
She who knows, and knows not that she knows, is asleep,
Wake her.
She who knows, and knows that she knows, is wise.
Follow her.

Anon.

A self-poised soul, brave and tender,
No longer blind and dumb;
A human being of unknown splendour
Is she who is to come.

* * *

My own, see where the years conduct!
At first 'twas something our two souls
Should mix as mists do; each is sucked
In each now; on, the new stream rolls,
Whatever rocks obstruct.

Oh, I must feel your brain prompt mine,
Your heart anticipate my heart,
You must be just before, in fine,
See and make me see, for your part,
New depths of the divine!

Robert Browning.

THE NEW BULGARIA

(Literary Digest)

The Kingdom of Bulgaria comes out of the recent European melee somewhat less disfigured than the other members of the Germanic alliance. It has lost a small amount of territory on the south, including its Ægean Sea littoral, but the Council of the Peace Conference, as an editorial writer in Current History (New York) observes, "is expected to assign a port on the Ægean at once." That southwestern vermiform appendix containing the fortress of Strumitsa which was a veritable thorn in the side of the Allies during the war, has also been lopped off. "Under the guise of frontier rectification, a large strip of territory containing no Servians and 92,000 Bulgarians, who had formed an integral part of Bulgaria, has been annexed to Serbia," complains a Bulgarian apologist, Theodore Vladimiroff, who presents, in the November number of Current History, a bitter protest against the injustices of the Peace Treaty, which became effective on August 9. Dobrudja, with a Rumanian population of less than 7,000 out of a total of 275,000, has been left in the possession of Rumania, further objects Mr. Vladimiroff. According to the current issue of The Statesman's Year-Book, however, nearly all of the remaining 268,000 are Turks and Tatars. The indemnity laid upon the country, about $450,000,000 at the normal rate of exchange, is responsible for much bitterness in Bulgarian governmental circles, but perhaps the worst blow is the fact that, by the Treaty of Versailles, Bulgaria's old rival, Rumania, is practically tripled in area and population. In the days before the war the countries were of approximately equal strength.

The population of Bulgaria in 1918, according to a compilation made for the Matthews-Northrup Works, map-makers, of Buffalo, New York, was 4,467,000, and the total area 43,305 square miles. The Statesman's Year-Book presents figures, admittedly estimates, for 1917, which give the area as 47,750 square miles, with a total population of 5,517,507. Mr. Vladimiroff, mentioned above, credits the present kingdom with "about 35,000 square miles and 4,500,000 people. It is a farming population to a great extent, with the unusually high proportion of 82 percent of the people owning their own land and homesteads. About a year after the conclusion of the armistice, the Farmer party came into power and the present head of the Government, Premier Stambolisky, "a farmer himself," is said to be more interested in agrarian reforms than international politics. The population includes as diversified a mixture of nationalities as is found in any of the heterogeneous Balkan States. In 1910, according to The Statesman's Year-Book, there were 3,203,810 Bulgarians, 488,010 Turks, 98,004 Gipsies, 75,773 Rumanians, 63,487 Greeks, 37,663 Jews, 3,863 Germans, 3,275 Russians, and 61,690 of other nationalities. Figures representing the proportion of nationalities in the various disputed provinces vary according to the national aspirations of the government which presents them.

The present boundaries of Bulgaria are practically the same as those the kingdom had obtained half a century ago, as is shown by an Oxford University publication. "An Historical Atlas of Modern Europe," which follows the recent development of European nations. In 1885, notes a writer in this work, eastern Rumelia revolted and united with the Bulgaria of 1878, a union reluctantly recognised by Turkey, whose suzerainty over the state continued. In 1908, following the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria, Bulgaria renounced Turkish control, changed the title of her ruler from "Prince" to "Czar," and assisted in the formation of the Balkan League, including Montenegro, Serbia, Bulgaria, and Greece. The League promptly challenged "a weakened Turkey, just freed from the war with Italy and the loss of the Tripolitana" (October 18, 1912). The complete defeat of the Porte was followed by a failure of the victors to agree over the diversion of the spoil, which led up to the second Balkan war. Serbia, Montenegro, and Greece took the field against Bulgaria, whose defeat, made decisive by the intervention of Rumania, left national feuds that worked themselves out in the recent war. The Dobrudja, which Rumania forced from beaten Bulgaria in 1913, was one of the prizes for which Bulgaria took up arms in 1915, and to whose loss the recent statements of her Premier prove her still unreconciled.

While waiting for her port on the Ægean, Bulgaria has been obliged to use her Danubian ports. Thus handicapped, observes an editorial writer in Current History, "she is said to have performed wonders, particularly in the production and export of cereals".

"The official statistics show that the yield of cereals in 1919 for the whole of Bulgaria was 2,527,614 tons, of which 1,800,000 tons were required for consumption and for sowing, leaving 727,614 tons free for export. Of the total yield wheat provided 925,112 tons, rye 164,860, barley 228,809, oats 107,226, and maize 985,296. Information furnished by the Director-General of the Bulgarian statistics and by the Ministry of Agriculture indicates an increase of at least 20 percent on the above figures for the 1920 yield."

One of the outstanding measures elaborated for the reconstruction of the country is the so-called Labor Conscription Law, which has been put into effect in combination with a law for "expropriating the surplus land of individuals who can not cultivate it themselves." To quote from Mr. Vladimiroff's exposition of this experiment in State Socialism, in Current History:

"The law provides that all Bulgarian citizens of both sexes, who have completed, the men twenty, the women eighteen years of age, are subject to obligatory labor. Men will work sixteen and women ten months. No substitutes are allowed, but everybody who is not physically or mentally incapable must do his bit of work. For religious reasons, which prescribe the seclusion of Mohammedan women, the latter are exempt from this obligatory labor. The conscripted persons will be put to work upon tasks for which they are fit, and part of their time of service will be devoted to mental and manual training. For this purpose, schools, workshops, etc., will be provided.

"As stated in the preamble of the law, the aim of this obligatory labor is:

"1. To organise and utilise the social forces in order to increase production and general welfare;

"2. To stimulate in all citizens, irrespective of their social and material condition, devotion to public things and love for physical labor;

"3. To elevate the people morally and economically by cultivating among the citizens the sentiment of duty to themselves and society, and by teaching them rational methods of work in all the domains of national economy.

"This labor conscription, as well as the project of expropriating the surplus land of individuals who can not cultivate it themselves, is dictated not only by the necessity of increasing production, but also by that of providing the many thousands of refugees with homesteads and land. Owing to the cession of eastern and western Thrace to Greece, of Macedonia to Serbia and Greece, and of Dobrudja to Rumania, thousands of Bulgarians have been forced to abandon their homes and seek refuge in Bulgaria. The number of these unfortunate exiles may be safely estimated at between 250,000 and 300,000. The Bulgarian Government has done and is doing what it can for their settlement, and the above-mentioned measures aim to effect this settlement with as little disturbance of the economic life of the country as possible."

In spite of these economic innovations, which have been opposed both inside and outside of the nation as "pure Bolshevism," Bulgaria shares with Turkey the distinction of being one of the two nations of the defeated alliance which retain their monarchical system practically unaltered by the war. The pro-German Czar, Ferdinand, resigned when it became apparent that he had backed the losing faction, and his son, Boris, the present Czar, is said to be somewhat more democratically inclined.

A New War

(From the New York Times)

Will wars never cease? After the Great War came the baseball war. Scarcely is that settled before another internecine conflict breaks out in golf. The Western Golf Association has long been seeking a casusbelli against the United States Golf Association, and now openly declares war. Not long ago the grievance was the stymie, which the Western Association boldly abolished. But the rule has been changed by St. Andrews itself, so that this source of hostility is eliminated. Then there was the quarrel about the status of the amateur. When the United States Golf Association decided that Mr. Ouimet had become a professional through selling golf supplies the Westerners did not recognise the decision. He could play as an amateur at Exmoor, while at Garden City he was rated a professional. But his amateur standing has since been restored, so that the war is not over that dispute.

The present complaint of the Western golfers is that the United States Golf Association is too exclusive, too autocratic, too monopolistic. Consequently the free spirits of the Western links are attacking with serried niblicks, proposing to smite the older organisation hip and thigh and utterly destroy it. The fight threatens to be sanguinary. A hail of balls will rain upon the devoted heads of the Easterners if they venture out of their front bunkers, while deadly golf stories will be exploded all over the battlefield. And now there is no nineteenth hole at which the combatants can meet to negotiate a peace. Hence the fear of a long and bloody war.

A Word For Moving Pictures

(From the London Daily News)

The cinema is so often made the butt of well-intentioned persons trying to find solid reasons for all the moral evils of the modern world that it is pleasant to find such well-informed observers as the police saying a good word for it. The police of the Potteries district attribute the marked decrease of crime in that delectable region directly to the influence of the picture house. Instead of resorting to a public-house in the evening, the Potteries men take their families to see the pictures. This result, if it is generally noticeable, must certainly be regarded as an important set-off against the supposed effect of full-blooded cinema stories of the Wild West on impressionable little boys who are tempted to become criminals for the pure fun of the thing. The one great objection to the ubiquitous cinema that has never been answered is its fatal tendency to destroy the art of idling. A faculty for appropriate idleness keeps the mind fresh, and, as Stevenson reminded us, implies a catholic appetite, and "a strong sense of personal identity." But nowadays a man is not content to idle deliciously in any of his leisure moments. He goes to the pictures. He is growing afraid to browse.

The Unpopular Title 'Dame'

(From the London letter to the Liverpool Post)

It seems that the title of "Dame," which goes with the highest honor for women in the British Empire Order, is not altogether popular, and it has been publicly stated on behalf of Mrs. Lloyd George that she prefers to be known as "Mrs." It must be confessed that "Dame" was perhaps not the happiest word, though it was difficult, no doubt, to find a better. There is something a trifle stodgy, if I may say so, about "Dame," which brings with it memories of "dame schools" and such things, and it is quite likely that the word which was intended to give distinction in this case will be quietly dropped altogether in future.

As far as I have noted, very few of the recipients of the D. B. E. have ever used it, though it is occasionally conferred on them in the newspapers, and it certainly is not regarded in the same light as the "Sir" which attends the higher ranks of this and other orders. Perhaps its suggestion of widowhood is against it.

Short Skirts

(A letter from a wearer of short skirts to the S. F. Chronicle)

Do not those who object to short skirts know that the men of today like to see their women in short dresses and even request them to wear 'em short? Besides, it takes your mind off of dull care to study the legs and ankles of women. Sometimes you get an awful shock when your eye travels from a pretty face down to her ankles and then again a delightful surprise often awaits you to discover that the possessor of an old or homely face has beautifully slim ankles and legs.

For the life of me I can see nothing immoral about it.

If reformers who knock our present modes will get out their family albums and glance at the female of the species in all the horror of hoop skirts and long panties, with overstuffed bosoms to the front and deforming humps to the rear, to say nothing of endless pleatings, ruchings and trailing skirts, topped by mountains of false hair, I think their voices must fall silent and we may skip happily on our way, in home and office, unhampered by the weight of steel bands or stuffing.

Vive la short skirt!

Far East News Notes

PHILIPPINE LABOR SITUATION IS BAD

Although there has been a slight improvement in the labor situation in the Philippine Islands, 50 to 60 percent of those thrown out of work as a result of the forced reduction of personnel and abrupt lowering of wages in many factories and other business houses still remain out of a job, declared Assistant Director of Labor Hermenegildo Cruz. He said that improvement is very slow.

Mr. Cruz explained that the only line of work which promises to improve is the sugar industry. He regrets, however, that despite this tendency there seems to be a natural aversion on the part of the laborers who are now victims of the crisis to migrate to the farm. The tobacco factories, he also said, still continue inactive and the cigar and cigarette employes who were thrown out of work do not as yet have permanent or regular work.

MANILA CHINESE EDITOR IS FINED FOR LIBEL

Po Soon-kiong, editor of the Peng Min Daily News, a Manila Chinese paper, has been fined G.$500 on charges of publishing in his paper on November 13, 1919, a libelous editorial against the members of the board of directors of the Philippine Chinese Educational Association.

It was alleged in the complaint that the libelous editorial stated that directors of the association converted into their own and personal use, the public funds entrusted into their custody for the purpose of maintaining Chinese public schools in the city for the benefit of Chinese children.

VICTORY FOR TAILORS IN MITSUKOSHI STRIKE

In connection with the strike by some 200 tailors belonging to the Foreign Clothes Department of the Tokio Mitsukoshi Department Store an amicable settlement was reached on December 30 when the management of the department agreed to the demands of the malcontents.

It is reported by the Mainichi that Mr. Kido, the sub-manager of the department, declared that an increase in the workers' daily wages would be made from the 15th instant together with the acknowledgement of other conditions. The settlement of the trouble seems to have been owing to some extent to the endeavor made by the Yuaikai headquarters in Tokio. On the 31st ultimo a congratulation meeting was held at the Matsumoto-tei restaurant, of Kanda.

CROWD TOKIO TRAMS ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

Nearly one and a quarter million passengers were carried by the Tokio trams on New Year's Day, and a million on each of the succeeding days. This means somewhere about half the population, though we may suppose that some hardy spirits braved the crush more than once on each day. In the circumstances the fact that upwards of a thousand lost articles were picked up in the trams on the first three days of the year does not indicate any excessive amount of intemperance. It is a wonder anybody was able to get out of the overcrowded vehicles with even the clothes on his back. New Year's Day in Japan is very jolly in many ways, but it is pure frightfulness on the Tokio trams, says the Japan Chronicle.

30 MOROS SLAIN IN SCHOOL WAR

Manila, P. I., Dec. 9.—Thirty Moros were killed in the Sulu Islands in a battle with the Philippine constabulary growing out of efforts to encourage education of children, it was learned here today from the governor of Jolo, the Philippine province embracing the Sulu Islands.

An educational agent named Alajani, a Moro, was killed by Moros on Pata Island when attempting to induce the Moros to send their children to school.

They resented his interference with their customs, according to the official despatch to the Interior Department.

The constabulary force was called out, and was met by a force of Moros armed with bolos, daggers and other Moro primitive implements of warfare. The battle resulted in thirty Moros being killed and a number wounded.

A number of the constabulary were wounded, but none was killed.

NATIVE GOODS THEME OF PARADE IN CANTON

On New Year's Day, the Cantonese held a grand parade for the promotion of native goods. The parade was participated in by more than seventy organisations. It started from Ningfung Maloo and traversed the busiest part of the city. Large crowds of spectators were attracted and numerous crackers were fired by shopkeepers. The figures exhibited in the parade were intended to awaken the interest of the people to the promotion of native goods. Native rubber goods, electrical supplies, native cloths, towels, glass, felt hats, etc., were the most prominent features.

One soap company exhibited eight Chinese characters formed of pieces of soap, meaning that if one wished to cleanse his body he must not indulge in using foreign goods. A purse was also shown with its mouth downwards, indicating that by the use of foreign goods one simply turned one's purse upside down.

One man representing the Native Banks Guild wore a coat fully pasted with Bank of China's notes, and held an earthenware bowl and bamboo chop sticks in his hand, shaking his head and sighing all the way. Before him, some were holding flags appealing for the maintenance of the Bank of China's notes. Lion-playing and the Chinese boxing corps were also prominent in the parade.

FOREIGN NEW YEAR OBSERVED IN CANTON

For the first time in Canton since the republican regime and the adoption of the western calendar nine years ago, New Year's Day was observed by leaders of all walks of life in Canton.

The native labor and commercial guilds celebrated the day with a parade. Aside from the display of a golden and a silver dragon and the dances of more than 30 lions, one wholly staged by young women, the guilds participating all exhibited their products and goods. Practically all trades were in line, including the newly organised industries of modern wares.

There were special church services, receptions, re-unions and meetings.

At the Military Government Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Dr. Wu Ting-fang, Mr. Tang Shao-yi, Administrative Directors, and leading officials, ministers and generals, formally took their oath of office promising to be honest and faithful in their official duty.

Other official action taken that day was the receiving of a deputation of citizens asking the Government to end the militarism in Kwangsi and to undertake various reforms and inaugurate liberal self-government institutions for the people.

NEW VICE-CHANCELLOR AT HONGKONG UNIVERSITY

The successor of Sir Charles Eliot, K.C.M.G., as Vice-Chancellor of the Hongkong University, Sir William Edwin Bruyate K.C.M.G., has had distinguished University record and has since been filling high appointments in the service of the Egyptian Government.

Sir William Brunyate who is 53 years of age, was the son of a clergyman at Bath, and was educated at Kingswood College, Bath and Trinity College, Cambridge. His scholastic record was: Second wrangler in 1888; first division, 1st class, 2nd part of Mathematical Tripos 1889; Smith's Prizeman; 1890; Fellow of Trinity 1890; President of the Cambridge Union Debating Society, 1890.

He was called to the Bar, at Lincoln's Inn, in 1894, and entered the service of the Egyptian Government in 1898, becoming Khedival Counsellor in 1903, Counsel to the Sultan of Egypt 1914-16 and Legal Advisor to H.B.M.'s Residency at Cairo 1915-16.

Sir William is a grand officer of the Order of Osmanieh and the Nile, receiving the first honor in 1905, and the other in 1915.

Sir William Brunyate's acceptance of the University appointment is not yet definitely announced. But the authorities expect to be in a position to make the announcement officially at an early date.

SNAKE BITES KILL 20,000 IN INDIA

Indian mortality returns record the death last year of 20,273 persons from snake bite. The number shows a slight decrease on the previous year's total of 22,600 and with the exception of 1917 there has been a progressive decline since 1915. The number of snakes killed last year was 58,416, compared with 59,495 in 1918.

Apart from snake victims, 2,637 person were killed by wild animals, this number being an increase of 473 on the 1918 total.

As usual, tigers were responsible for the majority of the deaths no fewer than 1,162 people having been killed, by these animals. Most of the deaths due to tigers occurred in Bihar and Orissia. Leopards killed 469 people, wolves 294, wild boars 201, crocodiles 185, bears 118, elephants 60 and hyenas 33.

During 1919 the total number of wild animals, other than snakes, destroyed was 19,094. Of these 1,518 were tigers, 5,432 leopards, 2,485 bears, and 1,941 wolves.

What Do We Get For Our Money?

(From the New York Herald)

As every taxpayer knows, we are spending great sums for education. The public schools and State universities, parochial and private schools, denominational and non-sectarian endowed schools, and colleges cost a great deal to maintain. In 1918 the total expenditure for the public schools was $753,678,039, the the number of pupils enrolled was 20,853,510, and the average attendance was 15,548,914. In that year the population between five and eighteen was estimated at 27,686,476. There were 650,709 teachers, 9180 superintendents, 5119 supervisors, and 12,591 principals.

But notwithstanding this great army of educators and the vast cost, there are a discouraging number of illiterates here. The census for 1910 put the percentage of persons of ten and more unable to read and write at 7.6 for the whole country. This rate was based on 5,516,163 illiterates over ten, of whom 1,378,884 were native whites of native parentage, 155,388 were native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 1,650,361 were whites of foreign birth, and 2,227,731 were negroes. The number of illiterate males of voting age was 2,273,603.

These figures show that either we are not spending enough money on education, vast though our annual outlay is for this purpose, or that we are not getting our money's worth.

Vienna Youth Loses Millions At Baccarat

Julius Von Szemso, 'Social Vampire,' Arrested By Austrian Authorities

Vienna, December 9.—One of Vienna's most bebonnair social vampires was arrested today in the person of Julius von Szemso, a Hungarian aristocrat, aged 39.

He has been in contact with the police on previous occasions, but his arrest is made this time on the charge that at a game of baccarat in his private house he and his brother won no less than 28,000,000 kronen, or nominally more than $5,000,000 from a young Viennese aged 21, whose name has not been disclosed.

It seems that the two Szemso brothers were nearing the end of their financial resources, despite their ostentatious life, and resorted to shearing this young lamb, who is the son of a rich manufacturer. They invited him to the house of Julius for a social evening, but the young innocent found only the two brothers present. They proposed a game of baccarat and stipulated that though they played for kronen the losses should be paid in some foreign currency, dinars being ultimately agreed upon. A dinar is a Servian coin, twenty-five of which in peace time equal about $5.

At the end of two hours' play the young innocent found to his horror that he had lost 28,000,000 Kronen and was obliged to sign seven bills of exchange for 2,000,000 dinars, this it was said, being the converted value. In case of trouble with the police the sum was stated on the bills to be in consideration of a loan of 28,000,000 kronen received from Szemso. Even here, however, the young innocent had been swindled, Szemso having calculated the dinars at twice the rate of exchange prevailing.

Julius Szemso is well known in certain strata of society as "the man with the yellow gloves," owing to his habit of wearing such gloves when playing cards at various clubs. He lives in a house called the Palais Szemso where he keeps a large establishment of servants, six motor cars, seven race horses and two milch cows, these being considerable of a rarity here nowadays. His adventures have long been a subject of conversation.

He has been previously arrested for engaging in what is known as valuta smuggling, or smuggling currency across the frontier, and for having illegally stamped Austrian kronen notes so as to give them a higher value. Similar charges were also preferred against him in Budapest.

His matrimonial affairs are in keeping with his general conduct. He has had many matrimonial adventures, and not long ago his present wife caused some diversion in a fashionable restaurant here by throwing vitriol in the face of a married lady of whom she thought she had grounds for jealousy.

At last he is safely under arrest on the serious charge of using his premises for the purposes of a gaming club, and a writ has also been issued against his brother, who has fled from Vienna.
